The Hunter-Bellevue School of Nursing is the flagship nursing program of the City University of New York. The School of Nursing is located on the Brookdale Campus of Hunter College, 425 E. 25th Street at 1st Avenue adjacent to The VA Hospital, Bellevue Hospital and NYU Medical Center. The Undergraduate program of study combines liberal arts and professional education with a humanistic and comprehensive approach to health care, leading to a Bachelor of Science degree. On completion of the generic program, students are eligible to take the NCLEX-RN exam, the licensing examination for registered nurses. The undergraduate program also provides a foundation for graduate study at the Master's and Doctoral level, which are offered at the Hunter-Bellevue School of Nursing and the CUNY Graduate Center.

The Generic Pathway consists of two parts:

- liberal arts, general education requirements and prerequisite courses
- professional nursing education

Students are considered for admission to the nursing program in the spring semester of their freshman year, after completing pre-requisite course work and an application to the School of Nursing. Only those admitted to the School of Nursing are allowed to declare nursing as their major. Admission to the School of Nursing is very competitive. At present, 100 students are admitted annually and no one is guaranteed a seat into the program. Students are required to attend the program on a full-time basis.

Composite score for admission to the nursing major is as follows:

- Cumulative GPA (50%)
- NLN Pre-RN exam score (50%)

The composite scores of all students applying for admission during an academic year are rank ordered from highest to lowest. Students will be accepted for admission based on this ranked composite score and the completion of all other admission requirements. Applications that do not include all admission requirements will not be reviewed. Students must have a GPA of 3.2 or better in order to apply.

Admission decisions will be made in spring semester; however admission will be pending the completion of spring semester course work with the required GPA (due no later than June 1st). After admission, students must attend a mandatory orientation session in order to maintain their accepted status.

Clinical course schedules are determined by the School of Nursing based on resources and clinical facility availability. Clinical schedules may include day and/or evening hours, as well as any of the 7 days of the week. Criminal background checks may be required by the clinical facilities. A student who has been convicted of a felony or misdemeanor will have to undergo investigation by the Office of Professional Discipline of New York State, which might result in denial of RN licensure.

Prior to beginning any course work in the nursing major, students are required to submit documentation of: health insurance, medical/ immunization records, professional liability insurance, and CPR certification. These documents are to be updated at the beginning of each academic year. The medical record must include a statement from a primary health care provider that a student is fully capable of participating in clinical practice.

Student fees may include: tuition, lab fees, textbooks, standardized exam fees, health and liability insurance, criminal background checks, uniforms, and medical equipment.

Important Information

In order to participate in nursing clinical experiences, students must provide documentation of one of the following:

- 1) U.S. Citizenship
- 2) Permanent Residency
- 3) International Student with F1 Status
- 4) Granted Asylum, Refugee Status, Temporary Protected Status, Withholding of Removal, Deferred Enforced Departure*; or Deferred Action Status by the U.S. government
