---

The Fund for Faculty Advancement was initiated at the request of faculty and in support of the Hunter College strategic plan. The program provides faculty resources needed to publish completed or nearly completed work or obtain external funding for their research, scholarship or creative work. While all requests that address these goals will be considered, the following examples are particularly appropriate for this program:

1. Costs related to indexing a book;
2. Copy-editing fees;
3. Publisher subvention fees;
4. Permissions fees;
5. Journal page fees; and
6. Costs related to the purchase of specialized datasets, software, or other materials necessary to complete a publishable scholarly or creative project, or general pilot analyses for grant proposals.

Amount: The maximum amount that may be requested through this fund is $3000 in any given academic year, and the awards are strictly for immediate use.

Eligibility: Full-time faculty in the professorial ranks (i.e., Assistant Professors, Associate Professors, Professors, Distinguished Professors) in all schools and the libraries are eligible to apply.

Deadline: Applications are reviewed on a rolling basis. Decisions are usually rendered in less than thirty days after receipt.
