Description	Food issues; food services available to the private and public sectors.	Description	Introductory food systems course that examines the myriad of actors, including government agencies, industry, and consumers, who shape food priorities and policies in the US.
		Effective Term Note: Most proposals take 2-3 semesters to be available for student to register.	November 2018 for Spring 2019 registration/listing.
Rationale: Current, dated, course name does not well-reflect course content which is policy-centric. A course titled food policy may also attract UGs in other majors (i.e.; Comhe, Sociology, Urban Studies...)
