Number of credits: 12

Prerequisites: 6 credits (GRMN 101 and 102, part of GER), or equivalent

DEPARTMENT OF HISTORY:Minor in HistoryCatalog Description:

Students majoring in disciplines other than history may elect a minor in history. The history minor consists of 12 credits. The minor in History is flexible and thus it can provide depth to a variety of majors; students can tailor the minor to suit best their individual interests.

Requirements:

- 1) Four history courses of 3 credits each (or 12 credits total) taken for a letter grade (C or better. Courses taken for a grade of Credit/No Credit will not count toward the minor.)
- 2) Courses must be distributed in at least two geographic fields, i.e. at least one course (3 credits) must be taken in a geographic area different from the other three. (Currently, the geographic areas are defined as U.S., European and World/Non-Western.)
- 3) At least two courses (6 credits) must be at the 300-level or above. Internships do not count toward completion of the minor, although students completing the minor may elect to include an internship as an additional course. Independent studies (tutorials) and HIST300 are available only to History Majors and, thus, do not count toward the minor.
- 4) At least two of the courses (or 6 credits) must be taken in the History Department at Hunter College. Courses taken in other disciplines will not count toward the minor unless cross-listed and taken under the appropriate HIST course code. Transfer courses must be approved by the History Undergraduate Advisor.
- 5) There are no prerequisites for the minor, although certain courses may have their own prerequisites.

Declaring a Minor in History:

Students are advised to declare their minor by the beginning of the upper junior semester, but must do it prior to their final semester (that of graduation). Declaration requires a planning session with the History Undergraduate Advisor and completion of the Major/Minor Declaration Form (to be obtained from the OASIS).

DEPARTMENT OF MATHEMATICS & STATISTICS:

Minor in Mathematics

Catalog Description:

A minor in mathematics consists of a minimum of 12 credits selected from the following courses offered by the Department:

MATH courses numbered 150 or above (with the exception of MATH 261W)
 STAT 311
 STAT 312.

Mathematics minors are required to take all necessary prerequisites. Students should consult the catalog to determine prerequisites necessary for them to enroll in courses that count toward the minor. It is recommended that prospective mathematics minors consult with an undergraduate mathematics adviser concerning course selection.

Minor in Statistics

Catalog Description:

A minor in statistics consists of at least 12 credits selected from STAT courses offered by the Department.

Statistics minors are required to take all necessary prerequisites. Students should consult the catalog to determine prerequisites necessary for them to enroll in courses that count toward the minor.

It is recommended that prospective statistics minors consult with an undergraduate statistics adviser concerning course selection.

DEPARTMENT OF MUSIC:

Minor in Music

The music minor consists of 15 credits in music: MU-T 101; MU-H 101 or MU-H 107; one course with an MU-H prefix at the 200-level; and 6 credits of music electives, 3 of which must be at the 200-level or higher. Prospective minors who have already mastered the material taught in the required 100-level courses (MU-T 101 and/or MU-H 101 or 107) may be exempted from these courses by passing the same entrance examination that is required of prospective music majors (see above). Music minors must substitute more advanced courses in any area of music study, which may include private lessons and ensembles, for the courses from which they are exempt. PLEASE NOTE: Music minors who wish to take private lessons for credit (MU-P 401) must first pass both the performance audition and music theory portions of the entrance examination.

DEPARTMENT OF PHILOSOPHY:

Minor in Philosophy Standard and PPS Concentration

Catalog Description of Philosophy Minor in the Standard and in the PPS Concentration

The philosophy minor requires 12 credits at the 200-level and above with no fewer than 3 credits at the 300-level. Exceptions: PHILO 171 may count toward the minor at the 200-level. PHILO 203 and 204 shall not count.

Students seeking to minor in the Philosophy, Politics, Society (PPS) concentration must select from the approved list of philosophy courses (i.e., non-philosophy courses may not be applied).

N.B.: When constructing a philosophy minor in either the standard or the PPS concentration, a student should always consult with a philosophy department advisor beforehand.

DEPARTMENT OF PHYSICS & ASTRONOMY:

Minor in Physics

Catalog Description:

A minor in Physics consists of a minimum of 12 credits of PHYS courses, including two courses numbered above 200 or one course numbered above 300.

Students who wish to enroll in the Physics Minor must have completed MATH 150 and 155. The prerequisites for the 300-level courses include MATH 250 and/or 254.

DEPARTMENT OF POLITICAL SCIENCE:

Minor in Political Science

Catalog Description

Program Offered	Program Requirements	Number of Credits
Minor in Political Science	No more than 3 credits in Political Science at the 100-level Students may apply up to three credits of independent study work to the minor; however, internship credits in Political Science may not be applied to the minor.	12 credits

The minor in Political Science is designed to provide students with solid grounding in political science and to encourage them to develop depth in the discipline in an area that will complement their major or develop expertise in an area of particular interest to them. To complete a minor in Political Science, students must complete 12 credits in Political Science with no more than 3 credits at the 100 level. Students may apply up to 3 credits of independent study in Political Science (PLSC 290); however, internship credit may not be applied to the minor.

The minor in Political Science is designed to permit students considerable flexibility in designing a minor that will best serve their academic goals. Students may, for instance, wish to focus on courses dealing with European politics and foreign policy to complement a major in a European language and culture. Other students may wish to emphasize courses in international and public law in preparation for law school. Students may concentrate their courses in one field of political science, or spread them across several fields. Students may consult an advisor in the Department of Political Science about their goals as they choose courses to satisfy the minor.

DEPARTMENT OF PSYCHOLOGY:

Minor in Psychology

Catalog description of the minor program
