Report by the Undergraduate Course of Study Committee
Re: Course Proposals by Units without Major, Minor, or Certificate
Programs

In its February 28, 2012 meeting, the Undergraduate Course of Study Committee agreed that undergraduate academic courses which are to be offered by any unit of Hunter college that does not offer an approved major, minor, or certificate program are to be considered in terms of how they may complement Hunter College's approved major, minor, or certificate programs in the context of the College's overall educational goals. A course proposal by a unit of Hunter College without an approved major, minor, or certificate program therefore is to be submitted to the Divisional/School curriculum committee(s) of the discipline(s) which the proposed course is to complement. The unit proposing the course shall be invited to send one or more representative(s) to the appropriate divisional/school curriculum committee(s). After going through one or more of those curriculum committees, as appropriate, the course proposal may then be brought to the Senate Undergraduate Course of Study Committee and the Senate for approval.
