Mellon Colloquium for All Faculty

All faculty are invited to attend a colloquium sponsored by the Mellon Minority Undergraduate Program. Members of the Hunter College faculty will discuss the following question: "Is the integrity of scholarly inquiry dependent upon fidelity to race, gender, and/or ethnicity?"

The question touches on all aspects of academic life: research, teaching, curriculum development, relations between colleagues. The Mellon Program, charged with identifying "minority" students seriously considering academic life as a career, sponsors the introduction of this question into a scholarly forum to encourage its fullest discussion.

Location: 217 HW
Time: 11am - 1pm
Date: Thursday, January 11, 1990
