

Spring 2018 Seminar Series

January 31	Danielle Berke, Ph.D., Boston University School of Medicine The Role of Masculinity in Gender Based Violence: Functions, Consequences, and Opportunities for Prevention and Intervention
February 6 Tuesday	Andrea Vial, PH.D., Yale University Gender bias in organizations
February 7	Vishnu Murty, Ph.D., Temple University Consolidation as a mechanism for adaptive memory
February 9 Friday	Audrey Miller, Ph.D. Violence Against Women in Context
February 16 Friday 12:30-1:30	Negin Toosi, Ph.D., Technion—Israel Institute of Technology Gender in the Context of Racial Diversity
February 21	Amber Martin , Ph.D., CUNY Hunter College The co-organization of language and cognition in an emerging sign language
March 7	TBD
March 13 Tuesday	Pariya Fazeli Wheeler, Ph.D., University of Alabama at Birmingham Successful Cognitive Aging with HIV: From Correlates to Intervention Implications
March 14	Gwendolyn Seidman, Ph.D., Albright College What Keeps a Narcissist Satisfied? The Role of Romantic Ideals and Positive Illusions on Intrinsic and Extrinsic Attributes
March 21	Diana Sanchez, Ph.D., Rutgers University Exploring new ways to promote diversity and reduce stigma through peripheral inclusivity cues
March 22 Thursday	Robert Leeman, Ph.D., Yale University Developing and Testing Electronic/Mobile Interventions for Substance Use and HIV Prevention
March 28	Tyler Wray, Ph.D., Brown University Using technology to improve HIV prevention, diagnosis, and care
April 11	Sumantra Chattarji. Ph.D., National Centre for Biological Sciences, Bangalore, India Synaptic Plasticity in the Amygdala: Implications for Stress & Developmental Disorders
April 18	Tyrel Starks, Ph.D., CUNY Hunter College (Tentative)
April 25	Regina Sullivan, Ph.D., NYU Medical
May 2	TBD

Seminars take place on Wednesdays from 12 noon - 1 pm (unless noted)

Hunter North (68th St. btw. Park and Lexington), Room 611