MINUTES
Meeting of the Hunter College Senate
11 May 2011

The 526th meeting of the Hunter College Senate was convened at 3:50 PM in Room W714.

Presiding: Sandra Clarkson, Chair

Attendance: The elected members of the Senate with the exception of those listed in Appendix I.

Alternate Senators were formally seated in accordance with the procedures approved by the Senate, and clickers were distributed to them.

Report by the President:
There was no report.

Report by the Provost:

The following is a summary statement of Provost Rabinowitz’s report to the Senate. She said:

“I am pleased to announce the appointment of Doctor Lucinda Zoe as the new Associate Provost. Dr. Zoe comes to Hunter with more than 20 years in higher education administrative experience. She has developed, managed, and promoted programs to support excellence in faculty research, teaching, and student learning. Her areas of expertise include: information and educational technology, and training in development, design, and provision of academic support services to diverse communities. Prior to coming to Hunter, Dr. Zoe served as Interim Provost and Vice President for Academic Affairs at Hostos Community College. She also served that institution as Chair of the Library Academic Department and Administrative Director of the College library, which won a National Award for Excellence. And, she’s been a member of the CUNY community since 1994 where she was a tenured Associate Professor at Baruch College and taught at the Information Studies Program. Dr. Zoe received her Doctorate in Library and Information Sciences from Columbia University.

After approval of the Strategic Plan we are setting about to implement. We will form four sub-committees and they will follow the direction of the five major planks: enhance Hunter’s academic identity as an emerging university; increasing student success and engagement, fostering a commitment to accountability; openness and inclusion; addressing Hunter’s urgent infrastructure needs; and aggressively seeking new resources. Anyone who wishes to be a part of one of those sub-committees, write to Len Zinnanti, Eija Ayravainen or me about your interest in participating. We will form those sub-committees over the summer. We are eager to implement the plan and in fact, we have made some beginning attempts. It became obvious early on that communication is an issue that is a great concern to faculty and students. The community wanted a community-wide calendar that members can contribute to and people can glance at what is going on at Hunter College. That calendar is going to be introduced electronically next week. People were very concerned about signage at Hunter College and you are going to see major strides in that immediately. We are making many strides in supporting Hunter as a research-intensive college and university. This plan is a living plan, one that we all support.

I hope that your Academic Deans have been talking to you about how your initiatives fit into the Performance Management Process (PMP). What are you doing to help us move toward our goals? Let’s think more broadly and think about how our Strategic Plan, the goals that we embraced, fit in with CUNY goals. The IRB goals fall into the following categories: raising academic quality by strengthening CUNY flagship in college priority programs; attracting and nurturing a strong faculty that is recognized for teaching, scholarship and creative activity; improving student success by ensuring that all the students receive a quality general education and effective instruction; increasing retention and graduation rates; improving post-graduate outcomes; improving the quality of student and academic support services; and enhancing financial and management effectiveness by increasing or maintaining enrollment.
These are online and if you have ways of contributing or thoughts, let us know.

Informed Registration is an initiative to which we owe special thanks to Prof. Manfred Kuechler who was for two years the Acting Associate Provost for Instructional Technology. He has heard over the years from students how they wished they knew more about what was offered in our classes, goals and expectations, requirements and what a course looked like before they registered for courses. We now know more than ever about what determines student success and certainly informing our students about what they can expect when they reach a class is part of the process of ensuring success. We were recently nudged toward this process further by a number of trends including a federal mandate to inform all of our students of required texts in each course and of their cost. That is a federal requirement to all institutions that receive federal money. There are a million reasons why in some cases we cannot be 100% compliant, however, we need to show right now a good faith effort toward complying with that standard. Informed registration means supplying our students with information that can reasonably be expected to affect their registration in our classes. There are cases where that is not possible, but in most cases it is possible. We have a disclaimer so that students understand that changes can and will be made. It will help our students to make better choices if we inform our students what they can expect in our classes. If possible, I urge you to post the full syllabus. If you are not willing to do this for concerns about intellectual property we have a template for what you might post instead. At Hunter, I fear it is all too rare that we post full syllabi. We’d like to move in this direction and I encourage your participation and help.

A year ago CUNY strongly encouraged us at Hunter to separate the functions of the Institutional Review Board from the office of Research Administration where it had been housed. It is a federal requirement that the IRB be autonomous and be independent from the office of Research Administration. The office of Research Administration has goals including to encourage as many federal grants as possible and the IRB office has a function to protect the rights of human subjects. We achieved that separation last year. Carolynn Julien moved to become the full-time Associate Director of Research Administration under the capable directorship of Bob Buckley. Sarah Leon assumed the position of IRB administrator in 2011. We are currently searching for a new IRB specialist, the number two person in the office. The IRB office is now located in room 1204 East. We have four IRB chairs leading Hunter and two IRB committees. We have Paul Cascella of Communication Sciences, Ming-Chin Yeh of Public Health, Michael Wood of Sociology, and Darrell Wheeler of School of Social Work as IRB Chairs and Co-chairs. We have expended services. IRB Chairs now hold weekly office hours during which they help researchers through the IRB process, answer questions, and minimize road blocks and other hassles. IRB Chairs are doing more outreach including going to classes to help students understand the review process and attending to department meetings to help educate faculty about changes in Federal regulations. We have expended the Q&A sessions known as “Cookies & Comments” so that people who want to know more about the IRB and how protocols can achieve approval can go to the informal sessions. We have developed a new research determination form to help researchers determine whether their projects are qualified as research and, therefore, require an IRB review. We have also updated the IRB web-site. Of the 614 current active IRB protocols 37% were expedited or exempt. Previously the percentage of expedited and exempt reviews was 10% or less. Also, all protocols for doctoral research now go to the Graduate Center even if the faculty sponsor is a Hunter college faculty member. Overall, there was a shift from research compliance to human subjects’ protection, increased emphasis on education, and a new emphasis on assessment. We now ask researchers who submit protocols and IRB members to evaluate the effectiveness of the IRB and we will report the results to you and use them to improve the process. We are here to facilitate faculty and student research as well as to protect the rights of students and other research participants. I hope that those of you who used the IRB have noticed an improvement in services and for those of you who have been avoiding the hunter college IRB for years, I encourage you to re-engage.”

While this year was slightly busier than 2009/2010, the composition of cases was very similar to last year. The distribution of cases did not change much, but the number of faculty cases fell from 9* to 4. (*The 8 count in last year’s report was premature.)

Overall, the total number of cases was 61 (or 64?), up somewhat from last year (53). The 3 “parent” cases are listed mostly for interest. Federal law prevents schools from discussing students with their parents and helicopter parents are both interesting and worrisome. First, they don’t make appointments, and I never actually met any of the students. This is very regrettable because it appeared the students might have had reasonable issues to discuss. By stepping in, the parents just did not appear to help their student-children at all. Certainly, any help the students obtained by their parents’ intervention was invisible to me.

The number of faculty with issues fell this year, but unlike last year, they were not all female. As you might expect, faculty ombudsman cases are more complicated than student cases.

What about the disposition of the cases? About 40% involved an existing Hunter rule, and many complainants were simply looking for ways around the rule. Sometimes, this is actually possible, but some people left still unhappy. Another 25% just needed to be referred to the correct Hunter person.

As in the past, I am making general remarks about ombuds offices. These offices are anything but standardized. Many are one-person offices while others have big staffs, including, in some cases, attorneys. Some officers have real power; some do not.

At Hunter, the power in the office is in the power of persuasion and, by the way, the fact that people hate to see you coming. However, this works very well; there are many sources of student support at Hunter.

It was moved that the meeting be adjourned. The motion carried and the meeting adjourned at 4:30 PM.

Respectfully submitted,

Philip Alcabes,
Secretary

CUNY/Hunter College Revised Tobacco Policy

CUNY / Hunter College Revised Tobacco Policy

HC SENATE MEETING
5/11/2011

Rationale

• At the request of chancellor Matthew Goldstein, Executive Vice Chancellor and University Provost Alexandra W. Logue convened a CUNY Tobacco Policy Advisory Committee to consider if—and how—the existing policy might be expanded to better protect the health of CUNY students, faculty, and staff. After extensive research, deliberations, and solicitation of community views, the Committee recommended that CUNY’s policy be expanded as indicated in this resolution to accomplish that goal.

• Both Hunter College and CUNY respect an individual’s right to use tobacco, however Hunter and CUNY request that smokers and tobacco users refrain from using tobacco products on campus property.

• Hunter College will be among the 400+ colleges and universities across the United States that have enacted smoke-free or tobacco-free policies for their entire campuses (indoors and out). Hunter College, along with CUNY, will provide support and assistance to those members of the Hunter College Community wishing to seek help with tobacco cessation.
Revised Policy

- "Beginning in Fall 2012, smoking and tobacco use, including the use of electronic cigarettes, is strictly prohibited in all areas, including indoor, outdoor, and vehicles, that are owned, leased, operated, or maintained by Hunter College. There is no sale of cigarettes, cigars, chewing, or pipe tobacco at any facility, location, or vending machine owned, leased, operated, or maintained by Hunter College or its contractors."

Revised Policy

Hunter College is now a part of the colleges and universities in the US who have enacted smoke-free or tobacco-free policies. Previous policy regulations, which state that smoking and tobacco use is prohibited inside all facilities owned, leased, or operated by CUNY, as well as prohibiting tobacco related advertising and/or tobacco sponsored events within CUNY, are still in effect.
Revised Policy

- The policy expands tobacco prohibition to include smoking and the use of tobacco products on any grounds, park, or terrace owned, leased, operated, or maintained by Hunter College.

- Those wishing to use tobacco products must do so off College grounds, at a distance sufficient so as not to interfere with access to or use of College buildings or other grounds.

- Both Hunter College and CUNY respect an individual’s right to use tobacco, however Hunter and CUNY request that smokers and tobacco users refrain from using tobacco products on campus property.

- Hunter College, along with CUNY, will provide support and assistance to those members of the Hunter College Community wishing to seek help with tobacco cessation.

Revised Policy

- Revised Policy is “Tobacco-Free”
  - No Cigarettes
  - No Pipes
  - No Cigars
  - No Chewing Tobacco
  - No Snus
  - No Electronic Cigarettes
