

Presidential Initiatives to Increase Student Engagement 2007-2008

Student-Faculty Research Initiative

The Student-Faculty Research Initiative contributes to the support to students participating in faculty research, scholarship, and creative projects. Hunter faculty may request up to $1,500 per student, per academic year, i.e., a maximum of $750 per student, per semester.

► Music

Activity: Restoration of Aged Cassette Recordings

Faculty: Victor Bobetsky

Student: Steven LaRocca

Summary

This project involved the restoration of a collection of old cassette tapes and the transfer of the restored audio recordings to CD format. The collection included recordings of New York City middle school students performing choral arrangements of music from diverse cultures and recordings of African-American spirituals, field hollers, and gospel selections.

► Nursing

Activity: American Association of Critical Care Nurses (AACCN) and the National Teaching Institute (NTI) Exposition

Faculty: Elizabeth Simon

Students: Sean Cloherty, Anwar Zafar

Summary

The students participated in the American Association of Critical Care Nurses (AACCN) and the National Teaching Institute Exposition. This event presents information about trends in technology that enhance patient care in emergency and trauma situations.

► Social Work

Activity: Evidenced-Based Practice (EBP) in Social Welfare

Faculty: Karun Singh

Student: Vongsamone Joy Luanqhaxay

Summary

The graduate student assisted in the systematic review of the extant theoretical and empirical literature on evidence-based practice (EBP) pertaining to social work, allied professions, and business. As a result of the student's research, the faculty member will be able to develop an EBMGT model for implementation in human service organizations.
